

CONTENTS

List of Illustrations vii
Acknowledgments ix

Introduction 1
Joe Street and Henry Knight Lozano

Part 1. Selma and the Voting Rights Act

1. Selma: The Bridge and Beyond 15
Alma Jean Billingslea Brown
2. Before the Bridge: Grassroots Activism in Selma in the Early 1960s 37
Benjamin Houston
3. Nonviolence Crowned or Dethroned? King's Strategy in Selma and Its Legacy 58
Peter Ling
4. "The Meat in the Coconut": Lyndon Johnson and the Voting Rights Act of 1965 77
Mark McLay
5. Backlash or Adjustment? The White South Responds to Selma 96
Tony Badger
6. "We Cannot Escape the Same Challenge": Britain, France, and the U.S. Voting Rights Act 113
Clive Webb

Part 2. Media and Memory

7. Mediating Selma: 1965, 2015 133
Aniko Bodroghkozy

8. “They Couldn’t Just Write It the Way It Wasn’t Anymore”:
Mainstream Media Narratives and the 1965 Selma Campaign 150
Mark Walmsley
9. Sidelineing Selma’s Segregationists: Memory, Strategy, Ideology, and Agency 171
George Lewis
10. “Men and Women of God and Goodwill Everywhere”: Selma and the Role of Religion in Civil Rights Drama 196
Megan Hunt

Part 3. The Myth of a Color-Blind America

11. The Third Reconstruction: The Racial Wealth Gap in the Post–Civil Rights South 217
Devin Fergus
12. How the Rise of Color-Blind Racism Opened the Door for the Supreme Court Decision in Shelby County v. Holder 240
Barbara Harris Combs
13. The Racial Laundering of Equality after Shelby County v.
Holder 264
Lynn Mie Itagaki

List of Contributors 289

Index 293