

Contents

List of Illustrations vii

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction. Reconceptualizing Diasporas and National Identities in Latin America and the Caribbean, 1850–1950 1

Michael Goebel

PART I. SPACES OF MIGRATION

1. Migrants, Nations, and Empires in Transition: Native Claims in the Greater Caribbean, 1850s–1930s 31

Lara Putnam

2. The Limits of the Cosmic Race: Immigrant and Nation in Mexico, 1850–1950 66

Jürgen Buchenau

3. Immigration, Identity, and Nationalism in Argentina, 1850–1950 91

Jeane DeLaney

4. Nation and Migration: German-Speaking and Japanese Immigrants in Brazil, 1850–1945 115

Frederik Schulze

PART II. MIGRATING PEOPLES

5. Motherlands of Choice: Ethnicity, Belonging, and Identities among Jewish Latin Americans 141

Jeffrey Lesser and Raanan Rein

6. The Reconstruction of National Identity: German Minorities in Latin America during the First World War 160

Stefan Rinke

7. In Search of Legitimacy: Chinese Immigrants and Latin American Nation Building 182
Kathleen López
8. British Caribbean Migration and the Racialization of Latin American Nationalisms 205
Nicola Foote
9. Italian Fascism and Diasporic Nationalisms in Argentina, Brazil, and Uruguay 234
Michael Goebel
10. “The Summit of Civilization”: Nationalisms among the Arabic-Speaking Colonies in Latin America 256
Steven Hyland Jr.
- Conclusion. Writing Latin American Nations from Their Borders: Bringing Nationalism and Immigration Histories into Dialogue 281
Nicola Foote
- Bibliography 305
- List of Contributors 345
- Index 347