

CONTENTS

List of Figures vii

List of Tables ix

Foreword xi

1. Introduction 1

Cathy Willermet and Andrea Cucina

2. On Interdisciplinarity in Bioarchaeology 6

Cathy Willermet

PART I. MIGRATION AND MOBILITY

3. Population Continuity and Replacement in the Pre-contact Valley of Mexico 37

Corey S. Ragsdale and Heather J. H. Edgar

4. Isotopes, Dental Morphology, and Human Provenience at the Maya Site of Yaxuná, Yucatán, Mexico: Mobility, Interaction, and Ethnicity 70

T. Douglas Price, Travis W. Stanton, and Andrea Cucina

5. Biological Affinities and Mortuary Archaeology in Coastal Northern Populations of Yucatán at the End of the Postclassic Period: Demic Considerations 99

Andrea Cucina, Allan Ortega Muñoz, and Sandra Verónica Elizalde Rodarte

PART II. ETHNICITY AND SOCIAL IDENTITY

6. Understanding Late Classic Maya Mortuary Ritual in Caves: Dental Evidence of Health from Macro- and Microscopic Defects and Caries 133

Amy R. Michael, Gabriel D. Wrobel, and Jack Biggs

7. True People, Foreigners, and the Framing of Maya Morality 159
Andrew K. Scherer, Charles Golden, and Stephen Houston
8. Human Migration and Ethnic Expression in the Southeastern
Borderland of Mesoamerica: A Bioarchaeological Perspective from Copan, Honduras 192
Shintaro Suzuki, Vera Tiesler, and T. Douglas Price

PART III. CONCLUSION

9. Interdisciplinary Approaches in Mesoamerica: Taking Stock 225
Frances F. Berdan

List of Contributors 249

Index 251