

CONTENTS

List of Figures and Tables ix

Foreword xiii

Preface to the 2024 Edition xv

Preface to the 1999 Edition xix

Acknowledgments xxi

1. Women in Southeastern U.S. Archaeology—Nancy Marie White 1

Gender in Southeastern Archaeology 2

Research Background 6

Researchers' Background 11

Summary Comments on This Volume 17

2. Margaret E. Ashley: Georgia's First Professional Archaeologist— Frank T. Schnell, Jr. 25

Early Georgia Work, Boas, and Moorehead 25

Abandonment of Archaeology 35

Return to Anthropology in Paleoethnobotany 37

A Legacy in Tragedy 39

Selected Bibliography of Margaret Ashley Towle 40

3. Isabel Garrard Patterson: Advocate for Georgia Archaeology— R. Jerald Ledbetter 42

Georgia Background 43

The Bull Creek Site and Public Support 46

The de Soto Route and Celebration 50

Later Years 53

Bibliography of Isabel Garrard Patterson 56

4. Madeline D. Kneberg Lewis: Leading Lady of Tennessee Archaeology—Lynne P. Sullivan 57

Growing up in Moline 59

Opera Singing in Florence 61

From Nursing to Physical Anthropology at the University of Chicago 61

Thomas McDowell Nelson Lewis 66
Tennessee and New Deal Archaeology 68
World War II 75
Archaeology for the Public, Oconaluftee, and the McClung Museum 76
Scholarly Contributions 80
Marriage and Retirement 86
On Being an Archaeologist and Life in the 1990s 88
Selected Bibliography of Madeline D. Kneberg Lewis 90

5. Black and White Women at Irene Mound—Cheryl Claassen 92

The New Deal 93
Suitable Projects for Women 93
How Archaeology Became Suitable for Women 95
White Women and the Irene Mound Project 96
Black Women at Irene: Racism or Opportunity? 98
Was Archaeological Work a Welcome Opportunity? 102
Discussion 105
Addendum 106
Appendix I 109
Appendix II 111

6. The Life and Times of Bettye J. Broyles: “I Did a Man’s Work for Thirty Years”—Hester A. Davis 115

Early Interests and Archaeology 115
First Jobs: Illinois, Georgia, North Carolina, and Elsewhere 120
West Virginia, Almost Heaven? 129
On Her Feet in Mississippi and Alabama 140
Going Back to Tennessee 141
The Legacy 143
Postscript 145
Selected Bibliography of Bettye J. Broyles 146

7. Best Supporting Actress? The Contributions of Adelaide K. Bullen—Rochelle A. Marrinan 148

Early Years 149
The Florida Years (1948–87) 151
The Caribbean Area 156
Bibliography of Adelaide Kendall Bullen 159

8. Yulee W. Lazarus: From Avocational to Professional in Northwest Florida—Nancy Marie White 163

Entrance into Archaeology 164

The Fort Walton Temple Mound Museum 167

Research and Public Archaeology 173

Selected Bibliography of Yulee W. Lazarus 177

9. This Ain't the English Department: A Memoir of Becoming an Archaeologist in the 1950s at Florida State University—Carol I. Mason 178

The Florida State University Anthropology Department 179

The True Word of Anthropology 182

Fieldwork 187

The Museum 192

Postscript 196

Carol Anne Irwin Mason: A Biographical Sketch—Rochelle A. Marrinan 198

A Southeastern Bibliography of Carol Irwin Mason 204

10. Hester A. Davis: A Legend in Public Archaeology—Nancy Marie White 206

Early Influences and Field Experience 207

Graduate School and Applied Anthropology 211

Archaeology in Arkansas 214

The Legend Continues 222

Selected Bibliography of Hester A. Davis 227

11. Martha Ann Rolingson: From Paleo Points to Platform Mounds—Nancy Marie White 230

The Lure of the Southwest 231

Eastward to Kentucky and Michigan 234

Arkansas Accomplishments 241

Toltec Mounds 244

Reflections on a Continuing Career 249

Selected Bibliography of Martha Ann Rolingson (1998) 253

12. Elizabeth S. Wing: A Patient but Persistent Vision—Rochelle A. Marrinan 256

Comparative Collections and Collecting 264

Pioneering an Emerging Specialty 266

Subsistence Reconstruction in Florida 267
Consultant to the Stars 270
Teaching Zooarchaeology 272
Methodological Considerations 275
And on the Home Front 276
A Few Summary Comments 278
Selected Bibliography of Elizabeth S. Wing (1998) 281

13. From the Hilly Flanks of the Fertile Crescent to the Eastern Woodlands of North America—Patty Jo Watson 286

Getting into Caves 286
Shifting to Eastern North America 290
Early Cultigens 291
Reflections 292
A Selected Southeastern Bibliography of Patty Jo Watson (1998) 295

14. Grit-Tempered Women—The Editors 298

The Paths Less Followed 298
Women and the South 309
The Paths of Change 311

15. Reflections and Speculations on Putting Women into Southeastern Archaeology—Nancy Marie White 315

Some Women Envision the Past 317
Engendering Hunters and Gatherers 328
Rethinking Assumptions 329
Later Prehistory Revisualized 332

References Cited 337

List of Contributors 369

Index 371